Location, Address, Phone, How to Get There

Location: Konchady (Padavinangady), about 6 km from the heart of Mangalore city, near the airport road and Mary Hill area.

It's adjacent to the Shri Venkataramana Temple under the Konchady Shree Kashi Math.

Address: Shree Mahalasa Narayani Temple, Konchady Shree Kashi Math, Padavinangady, Mangalore - 575008, Dakshina Kannada District, Karnataka, India.

Phone: +91 824 221 1400 (temple contact).

How to Get There:

Mangalore is well-connected.
From Mangalore city center (e.g., Hampankatta or bus stand), it's a short 15-20 minute drive by auto-rickshaw, taxi, or private vehicle. Mangalore International Airport (IXE) is nearby (around 10-15 km). Local buses or cabs are available; it's easily accessible via Airport Road.

Greatness of This Temple

This temple is a significant spiritual center, especially for the Goud Saraswat Brahmin (GSB) community and Vaishnava devotees.

It is revered as a place where Goddess Mahalasa Narayani (a form of Mohini, the enchantress avatar of Lord Vishnu) blesses devotees with protection, prosperity, and fulfillment of wishes.

It has grown into a prominent place of worship attracting devotees from across India and abroad, fulfilling ancient prophecies of becoming a global center of devotion.

Legends and History

The temple's origins trace back to divine inspiration.

Worship of Goddess Mahalasa Narayani initially began in a devotee's home in Mangalore (Shree Nagesh Kamath's residence), where Shakti Purusha (divine force) directed the construction of a dedicated temple under Shri Kashi Math Samsthan.

Astrologers predicted its fame.

His Holiness Srimad Sudheendra Theertha Swamiji blessed the site adjacent to the existing Shri Venkataramana Temple (where a Gayatri Mahayagya had occurred decades earlier).

A "kala" (divine aspect) of the Goddess from the famous Mardol Mahalasa Narayani Temple in Goa is believed to have manifested here.

Foundation stone (Nidhikalasha) laid on February 9, 1985, by Swamiji.

Consecration (prana pratishtha) on November 30, 1987 (Prabhava Samvatsara, Margashira Shuddha Dashami), by Swamiji.

The temple is managed by Konchady Shree Kashi Math and has a history tied to the broader worship of Mahalasa Narayani as Mohini (from Puranic legends like Amrita Manthan).

Architecture of Temple, Deities

The temple features beautiful South Indian-style architecture, designed by renowned temple architect Shree K.S. Acharya.

The main idol of Goddess Mahalasa Narayani is about 2 feet 9 inches tall, standing on a lotus leaf (unique variation from traditional vehicle).

She is placed in the sanctum sanctorum (garbhagriha) on an elevated peetha, with a pani peetha at a lower level.

Main Deity: Shree Mahalasa Narayani (form of Mohini/Narayani, slayer of demons like Rahu).

It is part of the complex with Shri Venkataramana Temple.

Daily Poojas and Rituals

The temple follows standard daily schedule with Vedic rituals typical for Vaishnava/Kashi Math temples:

Morning: Starts around 6:00-6:30 AM with Suprabhata/awakening, followed by Abhisheka (if scheduled), Alankara, Naivedya, and Mangalarati.

Noon: Around 12:00-12:30 PM – Madhyana Pooja, Naivedya, and Aarti.

Evening: Around 7:00-8:30 PM – Dhoop Aarti, Deeparadhana, and Nishapooja/Mangalarati closing.

General darshan is free. Daily poojas are performed by the temple priests for all devotees.

Specific individual daily sevas (like archana or abhisheka) require booking and have nominal charges (detailed in sevas list below).

Common daily offerings include archana with flowers, kumkum, akshata, and chanting of stotras like Mahalasa Stuti or Vishnu Sahasranama.

Sevas / Special Poojas and Their Charges (as listed on the official temple website)

The temple offers various sevas, many of which can be performed daily or on specific occasions.

Here are key ones with approximate charges (in INR; these may be subject to updates – confirm directly with the temple):
Brahmana Santharpane Seva (For 1 Month): ₹5,000

One Day Pooja with Brahmana Santharpane Seva (on a chosen day): Not separately listed but part of packages.

One Day Sarvalankara Pooja (full decoration): ₹300 (individual) / ₹3,000 (with additional offerings?)

Varamahalaxmi Vritha (on 2nd Friday of Shravana Masa): ₹150 / ₹1,500

Nandadeepa Seva (perpetual lamp for 1 Month): ₹150

Other common sevas typically available (based on similar Mahalasa temples and partial listings; exact current list may vary):

Panchamruta Abhisheka, Kumkumarchane, Pushpanjali, etc. – usually start from ₹50-₹200.
Special archana or ranga pooja – around ₹100-₹500.

Longer-term or grander sevas (e.g., monthly/annual sponsorships) go higher, like thousands for annadana-linked or brahmana bhojana.

For a full updated list, including any new additions, visit the temple's sevas page directly: http://www.mahalasanarayani.com/sevas.

The site mentions a detailed list of sevas offered to Goddess Sri Mahalasa Narayani.

Special Poojas and Rituals

Tailadivasa Prakriye Seva (oil bath/ritual, often for specific occasions): Around ₹300 (quick booking available via links shared on temple's Facebook).

During festivals like Navaratri, Prathishta Vardhanti, Brahmarathotsava – special homas, yagas, alankaras (e.g., Swarna Rathotsava, Shathakalashabhisheka), and processions with higher charges for sponsorships (often ₹1,000+ depending on scale).

Online seva booking is available, especially for major events like Jeernoddhara Punar Prathishta (recently highlighted for Feb 2026).

Devotees can book sevas online or in person; some platforms like mymalshi.in or temple-linked sites facilitate donations/sevas.

How to Book or Get Latest Charges

Located in the Padavinangady area of Mangalore, the Konchadi Sri Mahalasa Narayani Temple is a significant spiritual hub for the Goud Saraswat Brahmin (GSB) community.

It is uniquely situated within the premises of the Konchadi Shri Kashi Math, a branch of the Kashi Math Samsthan.

History and Significance

The temple is dedicated to Goddess Mahalasa Narayani, who is identified as Mohini, the female avatar of Lord Vishnu.

According to the Bhagavata Purana, Mohini appeared during the Samudra Manthan (churning of the ocean) to trick the demons and distribute the nectar of immortality (Amrita) to the gods.

While the original presiding seat of the deity is in Mardol, Goa, this temple was established in Mangalore to serve the large population of devotees (Kulavis) in the region.

The temple operates under the guidance of the Kashi Math Samsthan, specifically following the divine blessings of the late Srimad Sudheendra Theertha Swamiji and the current Matadhipati.

Architecture

The temple reflects the traditional coastal Karnataka and GSB architectural styles.

* The Sanctum: It houses the beautiful idol of Shri Mahalasa Narayani in a standing posture.
She is depicted with four hands, holding a Trishula, a sword, a severed head, and a drinking bowl—symbolizing her power over evil.

* The Surroundings: Being part of the Kashi Math branch, the temple complex is serene and well-maintained, featuring a spacious Sabha Mantapa (assembly hall) used for religious discourses and community gatherings.

* Renovation: The temple recently underwent significant renovation (Jeernodhara), culminating in a grand Punar Prathishta (re-consecration) ceremony in early 2026.

Main Deities

* Primary Deity: Shri Mahalasa Narayani (Mohini).

* Secondary Deities: The complex also honors Shri Venkataramana (a form of Lord Vishnu) and other deities associated with the Kashi Math lineage, including shrines for Lord Ganesha and Bhuvaneshwari Devi.

Festivals and Rituals

The temple is known for its vibrant celebrations that adhere strictly to GSB traditions:

* Brahmarathotsava (Annual Car Festival): The most important event, usually held in early February, where the deity is taken out in a grand chariot (Ratha).

* Navaratri: Celebrated with nine days of special Alankaras (decorations), where the Goddess is dressed in different forms each day.

* Sunday Palakhi Seva: Sunday is considered particularly auspicious for the Goddess; a palanquin procession often takes place in the evening.

* Vardanthi Utsava: Commemorating the installation day of the deity.

Timings and Best Time to Visit

The temple is generally open for darshan during the following hours:

* Morning: 6:30 AM to 12:30 PM
* Evening: 5:00 PM to 8:30 PM

* Best Time to Visit: November to February is ideal, as the weather is pleasant and coincides with the major annual festivals like the Rathotsava.

Location and Contact

* Address: Padavinangady, Konchadi, Mangalore, Karnataka - 575008.

* Distance: Approximately 6 km from the heart of Mangalore city.

* Contact: 0824-2211400

* Navaratri 2026:

  * Commencement: October 11, 2026
  * Vijayadashami: October 20, 2026
  * During these 10 days, the temple performs "Sahasranama Seva" and different Alankaras (forms) of the Goddess daily.

Guidelines for Devotees

* Dress Code: Traditional attire is preferred. Men are encouraged to wear Dhotis/Veshtis (removing shirts is required for certain inner sanctum rituals), and women are encouraged to wear Saris or Salwar Kameez.

* Sundays: Since Sunday is the dedicated day for Shri Mahalasa, the temple is exceptionally crowded.

It is recommended to book special sevas like Ranga Puja at least a week in advance.
